Jen,

I do appreciate your acknowledgment of the cease and desist request and that you understand the laws that you are currently violating and continue to do so by not removing the copyright and trademark material that you currently have on your site(s) without the written expressed permission of the Portland International Church of Christ. This has been an attempt to make you aware of what you are doing and thus resolve this matter quickly without having to go beyond the communication that we have had up to this point. Also understand that the request has been made under the advice of an attorney who specializes in this area and this should not be taken lightly.

I also can appreciate your concern to explain certain legal terms but at this point hold no merit to our communication. "Standing" only applies to that individual(s) who initiate (file) a lawsuit in which the legal system will recognize. Your position of "standing" in this matter does not justify the laws that you are currently violating. My attempt has been to inform you of the Copyright and Trademark Laws in which you are violating and thus remove this material.

I will be meeting this week with the President of the Board to discuss the action in which you are forcing us to take to protect the rights in which you are currently violating.

Sincerely,

Russell Preston
